Canyon City, Col., June 23.-Kirck Kuykendall, a convict at the state penitentiary, was shot and killed Monday, when attempting to escape with five other desperate prisoners. As Dr. T. D. Palmer and the hospital steward were making the morning rounds Keykendall complained of being ill, and the doctor prepared to make an examination. The prisoner a similar organization in northwest drew a bottle supposed to contain nitro-glycerine and ordered the two men to throw up their hands. They tues in Columbia at an early date. An did so. The four prison officials thus made prisoners were stripped of their clothing, which the convicts put on. Taking the doctor and the steward with them, the mutineers proceeded towards the gates. On the way they captured Warden John C. Cleghorn's wife, and forced her to go along, using her as a shield to prevent the guards from firing at them. The inner and outer gates were blown off their hinges with dynamite which the convicts had secured, but an attempt to force the armory was

> Meantime Warden Cleghorn had arrived from town, and, collecting guards, ordered them to shoot the fugitives whenever an opportunity presented itself to do so without injuring Mrs. Cleghorn. Holding knives against her breast, the mutineers shouted that they would kill her if the guards fired. Mrs. Cleghorn fainted, and the convicts then took to their heels, pursued by the guards. Kuykendall was killed by Yardmaster John Clark, after shouting:

"I'll never be taken alive. I'll not go back to that hole." James Armstrong was overtaken by

Will Cleghorn, son of the warden, and was severely beaten over the head with a revolver, but was not seriously wounded. The other fugitives who were taken alive were Thomas Fisher. Thomas Fallon, Cuaz Cordova and Kuykendall was a member of a carried only on the railways of northern Germany; now some south German lines have adopted them. The fare is half a cent per kilometer, or nearly a cent per mile. Preliminary returns for the railways of the United Kingdom for the year 1902 show that on the 22,147 miles of lines opened the gross receipts were £109,534,000, and the working expenditures £67,907,000, leaving net receipts of £41,627,000. Compared with 1901 this shows an increase of £2,918,247 in gross reccipts, of only £360,323 in expenditures, and of £2,557,924 in net receipts. The previous year the expenditures amounted to £2,746,492 more than in 1900, while the net receipts were nearly £1,000,000 less than in the year before.
